

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PSYCHOLOGY

RESPONSIBILITIES AND QUALIFICATIONS

The University of the Ozarks invites applications for a current opening as a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Psychology beginning August 2024. Preference will be given to those candidates that have earned a Ph.D. degree in Psychology by the time of employment, although ABD will be considered. The area of specialization is open, although applicants with expertise in I/O or Social Psychology are preferred. The desired applicant should have college teaching experience and demonstrate successful student-centered teaching outcomes. In addition, applicants should desire to working as a team to promote our growing and popular psychology program. The primary responsibilities of this position include the teaching of psychology courses in a range of content areas, including I/O, social psychology, related subfields and introductory courses. Additional opportunities to enhance the Psychology program's curriculum with additional courses and research that incorporates student involvement are available.

The University values personal attention and collegiality, and a familiarity with and understanding of a small residential campus are highly desirable. Candidates should demonstrate a strong interest in working with a culturally diverse student body. Excellent communication skills and strong support of the University's mission are also required.

ABOUT UNIVERSITY OF THE OZARKS

Ranked in the Top 10 of Southern regional comprehensive baccalaureate institutions by U. S. News & World Report, University of the Ozarks is a Presbyterian-related institution that blends the liberal arts and professional preparation in a student-centered environment emphasizing quality teaching and student learning. The University serves approximately 800 undergraduate students on a beautiful campus in Clarksville, Arkansas, located along Interstate-40 approximately 90 miles northwest of Little Rock, and nestled between the Arkansas River and the Ozark Mountains. The University serves students from diverse religious, cultural, educational and economic backgrounds and welcomes students from throughout the U.S. and from more than 20 countries around the world. Knowing that diversity contributes to academic excellence and rich and rewarding communities, Ozarks is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty, staff and student body. The University is especially interested in applicants with diverse backgrounds and experiences and those with a successful record of teaching and working with diverse students, including historically underrepresented minority students and other underserved populations. Recent fundraising campaigns have enhanced facilities, academic programs and other campus initiatives. For more information about University of the Ozarks, visit www.ozarks.edu.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the search is completed. Please send a letter of application; vita; statement of teaching philosophy; and three current letters of reference, at least one of which addresses teaching ability, to:

Rosa Torres
Director of Human Resources
University of the Ozarks
415 N. College Avenue
Clarksville, AR 72830

Email: humanresources@ozarks.edu